

What are our first thoughts that come to mind when we see this picture?

Today, we are going to be writing a setting description of this place.

What do we need to consider when describing somewhere?

- See
- Hear
- Smell
- Touch
- Taste
- Feel
- Show not tell
- Similes / metaphors / personification

Let's gather some ideas ...

The ceiling of thick branches shut out the sky and covered the path in darkness; they only had a fleeting glimpse of the moon to guide them as it scudded across the horizon, appearing briefly from behind the dark clouds. Like guards, the magnificent oaks stood silent and dark, watching and waiting. Approaching the building, it was clear that whoever lived here was determined they didn't want to be disturbed - the metal, spear-like fence made sure of that.

WALT write a setting description

Your task today is to write a setting description of the setting in this picture.

Don't forget to use everything that we have recapped this week too.

Try and imagine that the person reading this, hasn't seen the picture. How are you going to paint the image in their head?
