

Can you spot all the errors in this paragraph?
Go through and edit the mistakes.

Can you find and mark ten errors in the paragraph? Look for errors of capitalisation, punctuation, spelling, and grammar.

On 1st May Conservationists draw attention to one of the worlds most endangered creature on a day what is called "Save the Rhino Day." Rhinos have roamed the planet for millions of years, but in recent times they are facing a new challenge to their existence humans. The horn of the rhinoceros which is made of the same material as human fingernails are used in traditional Asian medicines and for the handles of knives. As a result poachers have hunted the animals to near extinction thankfully, due to the hard work of conservationists, the rhino is making a comeback.

Let's remind ourselves about the key punctuation marks we need to know. We are going to write a definition next to each one and create a glossary in our books.

,

comma

;

semi-colon

:

colon

(...)

brackets

'

apostrophe

-

hyphen

Now that we've reminded ourselves of the key punctuation use, we're going to have another go at editing a piece of writing.

felicity WILL you look this way exclaimed Mrs Appleton you have been fidgeting all morning reluctantly felicity tore her eyes away from the coin she was holding in her hand and tried to concentrate on her class teacher who was talking about maths something to do with multiplication felicity vaguely recalled catching matt's eye they grinned excitedly at each other this was it today was the day the two best friends had been waiting for this day for what had seemed an eternity both of them had been looking at the clock every 5 minutes both willing the hands to move forwards faster so that they could be whisked off home by felicity's parents at lunch time they were going on holiday!