KS1 Science Club!

We had a great first session at Science Club this week exploring items that float or sink. First, we made a prediction, then we tested it out! Some of our predictions were correct and some weren't. We even found a feather and saw how when it was submerged in water and then pulled out, the water barely affected the feather! We're looking forward to next week!

2026 - The National Year of Reading!

Week 7 - Reading Is a Daily Habit

Reading is a lifelong habit that we need to teach to our children. Short, consistent reading sessions are more powerful than long reading sessions that only happen occasionally. The more frequent our short reading sessions are happening, the more likely our children will continue this throughout their life.

At home:

Create a routine for your reading - whether after dinner or before bed- to help form this habit for your child.

Recommended Read:

'All The Wonderful Ways To Read' by Sandra De La Prada

*Books take us on journeys that we can all share,
And give us the power to go anywhere!*

*So no matter just how, or what book,
or your speed, what I wish for NOW...
Is that YOU love to read!*

This fantastic book inspires ALL children to find their own wonderful way of reading.

Our Driver this half term is:

CITIZENS OF THE WORLD

How can parents help support this at home? What opportunities can be created outside of school?

- Discuss where Ludlow fits in with the wider world, in relation to both the UK and the rest of the world.
- Looks at maps, globes and atlases to spot different places.
- Talk about any significant events which are happening around the world (e.g. religious festivals, the Olympics, news stories, etc).
- Discuss how different countries and cultures compare to our own.
- Talk to children about different cultures within our country and discuss different ways that we can be respectful of these cultures.
- Read books which are set in different countries, or that celebrate different cultures.
- Listen to world music or learn another language together.
- Watch BBC Newsround together and have discussions about the wider world.
